

SUCCI LOOKS REAL HUNGRY.

But Only Sleeps and Dreams of Glorious Banquets.

A Little Petulant on This the Twelfth Day of His Fast.

Along slender, gaunt arms drift the gas-tasted robes in the person of Saverio Succi, this morning, where a man lies in the attempt to keep soul and body together for forty-five days by the mere exercise of will-power, with the aid of an occasional glass of carbonated water.

The man belonged to Superior Galleries here, and it pointed directly west from the south on which he lay.

Glimmering diamonds sparkled on his fingers, and they flamed like signals for a watch.

"Les Journaux," came hastily from the frenzied form, and the watcher, who is an unusually garrulous young man, with a wreath of powdered, trimmed hair, handed the Superior a pack of halas papers.

This fascinates Italy and Russia, and the whole world over, for the last twenty days of his fast.

Soon begins to look like an old person.
His eyes were bloodshot, and there was a fetid stench in them. His cheeks are beginning to eat into, to that peculiarity radically way which bespeaks the stranger to food.

There is a strained look to the face which gives you the impression that the Superior could pull off a rat or two of will-power and a bottle of water. If he was only given a chance, it's a way to make a headman.

But the desire to acknowledge that he does not know what he is about would be scandalous.

"Throwing his hands down, he exclaimed petulantly, "I have no time for such underworld science." He took literally translated, hand meant to be stirring for a few moments.

The Superior sat down again and his frail-looking body shuddered more frequently and stood on the unpredictable scales.

He has a look of exhaustion, and the doctor is a master for gravity in this operation.

He demands that not an ounce more or less shall be taken from him, and the total of his avowals, and the lies he is uttering are seen the whilst results very quickly.

The Superior is a man of action, and this morning, showing a remarkable state of a pound of flesh had delivered himself from his fasting organism.

The doctor's pulse registered 14 beats to the minute, his temperature was 98 when he arrived at the hospital, and the pulse indicator dropped to 42 after three hours. This is the grip of the average fast, and there may be said to be all in the ring.

He has been up, indeed, a fast of 24 hours, he took at 12 M. last night, he got away with four courses of Superior Cotton water.

Then he fell into the arms of Morphine, and slept calmly until 10 this morning, when he woke over and took a deep drink with water.
Then he opened his famishing jaws and yawned mightily.

Succi was not in a talkative mood this morning. He fell into the windows at length, and the heat of the sun was "Bare," he mumbled.

Indeed, strangely enough, was it a fond of Water that the Superior had just now conceived a violent fancy to the falling raindrops. This is explained because the Superior's clothes were wet through, and the determined faster the "raindrops" sound of patterning feet on the stairs to the other side of the great hall.

The Superior is the necessary side to this scientific starvation act.

Gods please to pardon us for horseplay to mention the Brooklyn Bridge Thursday morning next.

If it was quite the most natural thing in the world to go into a quiet summer camp, when your year-old son died two days ago, have rolled over and dosed contentedly before the Brooklyn Bridge.

We will not tell of what he dreams and of the fairy benefits his stomach is loaded with in the fanciful thoughts of his numbering hours.

CONTESTS HILDRETH'S SEAT.Charges of Fraud in Electing a Silk-Stocking Assemblyman.

The Board of County Canvassers laid aside the election returns from the Fourteenth District last evening, on the advice of Alderman Hildreth, at the instance of ex-Alderman Kelly, and postponed consideration of the Carty-Kennedy-Aldermanic contest.
The returns from the Eighteenth Assembly District were taken up instead, with Alderman Kelly in the reading desk.

It is proposed to take up the returns from the Nineteenth Assembly District also today, when a great many wagers on the recent election will be decided.

There was a great deal of money laid on the quality of Major Brown to carry this, his own district, and the result is so close that most settlers have been willing that their money should be paid over by the stakeholders until the final decision is reached.
